FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Paoli is Still on the Move with a Second Open House on June 12th, 2013

Berwyn, PA (May 20, 2013) – Exciting plans are still underway in Paoli! SEPTA and Tredyffrin Township are continuing to coordinate with consultants to work on the design of a new train station and parking facilities, as well as develop ideas for transportation improvements on the surrounding streets. After presenting three (3) site alternatives for the proposed Paoli Intermodal Transportation Center at the first open house in October 2012, SEPTA announced in February of 2013 that it has chosen the Darby Road Extension Alternative, due in large part to the positive feedback received from public officials, the community and business stakeholders. Public involvement continues to be crucial to the success of these projects.

As part of this ongoing public outreach program, the Paoli Transportation Open House #2 will take place on June 12th, 2013, 4pm – 9pm, at the Tredyffrin Township Building, 1100 DuPortail Road, Berwyn. All are welcome to stop by at anytime during those hours to share ideas about roads and pedestrian improvements and learn about SEPTA's current plan for a new Intermodal Transportation Center. Any person with a disability who wishes to attend and requires an auxiliary aid, service or other assistance to observe or participate in the proceedings is encouraged to contact Tredyffrin Township to request accommodations.
